Jewar International Airport

The Swiss business is developing the Jewar Airport in four phases for an estimated cost of Rs 15,754 crores. When fully constructed, the airport would be able to handle 70 million passengers per year. The airport of Jewar Aerocity will produce 2.5 lakh jobs in the first few years of operation. Jewar Airport is the world's fourth-largest international airport, measuring 5100 Hectares and housing six runways with passenger and cargo facilities. It is four times larger than IGI Airport.

For now, the airport will be built under a public-private partnership concept. The proposal is to construct a two-runway airport by 2024.

After the ground-breaking ceremony of the airport, which would also be the country's largest airport by size market analysts expect things to gradually improve for Noida's property sector, which is under huge pressure due to an ongoing downturn domestically.
